

Bellyful Catering Company

Position Title: Catering Cook

Duration: Part-Time (25-35 hours/week)

Wage: Starts at $15/hour and increases to $18/hour once trained and event ready

Job Overview:

Five-star catering company seeks a cook to work in our fast paced and high spirited kitchen. Must have knowledge of and experience with food and flavors, as well as experience in a commercial kitchen or restaurant.

We strive to not only meet, but exceed our clients' expectations and we are looking for someone who is able to share those same goals. Our clients are often planning and hosting significant and emotional events and, as such, need us to be patient, compassionate, and flexible. Our new team member must be able to handle stressful and occasionally difficult situations with care and kindness.

Catering consists of long days preparing food for events, as well as cooking at event sites. Our new cook needs to have the physical dexterity and stamina necessary for hours on their feet, as well as the lifting, carrying, and general movement required to cater a successful event. Part of your job would also be the respect and maintenance of Bellyful's equipment and resources, as well as the health and well-being of coworkers and clients. This includes, but is not limited to: cleanliness, punctuality, and adherence to workplace safety.

We are looking for someone that is self-motivated and able to work well independently, but is also able to be a supportive and positive member of a team. Bellyful and its staff are important to us, and we foster an environment of warmth and respect - for each other, and for the business. We expect the same from our team and are looking for someone that strives for excellence, is always seeking to improve, and takes pride in a job well done.

Must Have:

- Valid Food Handler's Card
- Ability to follow and lead
- Previous professional experience in a restaurant or commercial kitchen
